During the field trip panorama photos are taken which help students orientate themselves to the field trip environment. Panoramas will appear here during the field trip and may include 'Interactive' panoramas as well as 'still image' panoramas. Questions from the captions are best answered after watching videos, reading a diary, or listening to an audioconference.

Monday 12 May

[2] Looking across the harbour to Wellington City. How do you think a city can have green spaces when there is so much traffic and so many high-rise buildings?

Tuesday 13 May

[3] A view from the eastern end of the trench. This part is not yet covered and the concrete walls are still to be poured. What is the correct term for the “moulds” that are set up to pour concrete into for the walls?

[5] A view from the western end of the trench. Here you can see some of the concrete walls and tunnel roof have been poured. The first roof span to be poured is 14.5 metres wide, 10 metres long and 0.8 metres deep. Can you work out what the total volume of this roof span is in cubic metres?
